THE ADMINISTRATION PANEL

1.1 Getting Started

1.1.1 Creating A Season

Create Season Panel

This is the very first panel you will see as an administrator. Assuming everything is working properly (and trust us, it is), there should be a few things unique to this panel that you'll notice:

1. A spot for you to increase/decrease the number of weeks in this season.
2. A spot for you to increase/decrease the number of contestants in this season.
3. Two spots for you to enter tribe names.
4. A button at the bottom of the panel that says "Create Season".

Modifying the number of Weeks/Contestants

We did what we could to keep this simple for you. These two fields are synchronized, so all you need to do is set either

1. The number of contestants in your game,

or

2. The number of weeks your game will run for.

The other field will update appropriately.

Note: These fields abide by the standard mechanics of the game of Survivor. You can have no more than 15 contestants, and thus 12 weeks, and no less than 6 contestants (3 weeks).

The screenshot shows a web browser window titled "Survivor Pool Admin". Inside the window, there is a navigation bar with "File" and "Theme" links. The main content area has a large blue heading "Welcome to SurvivorPool!" followed by the instruction "Fill out the fields below to create a new season." in blue italicized text. Below this, there are two rows of form fields. The first row has "Weeks:" followed by a text box containing the number "3" and a small up/down arrow icon, and "Contestants:" followed by a text box containing the number "6" and a similar icon. The second row has "Tribe 1:" followed by a long empty text box, and "Tribe 2:" followed by another long empty text box. At the bottom of the form area is a large button labeled "Create Season". A status bar at the very bottom of the window displays "SEASON CREATE" in blue text.

Entering Tribe Names

There's a certain etiquette to naming tribes that must be abided by for you to successfully start your season. Your tribe names must be kept simple (as simple as we keep this process for you!). The actual names are decided on the show, but if you are going for a more personalized game, remember:

- The tribe names cannot have numbers or special characters in them.
- The tribe names must be less than or equal to 30 characters.
- The tribe names must be greater than or equal to 1 character.

Create Season

When you press this button, it will check the tribe names to make sure the guide lines indicated above have been followed properly. If they have not, the panel will inform you where the error exists; otherwise it will allow you to proceed to the General Panel.

1.2 General Panel

At first glance, this panel will look very busy. We will explain this panel from the top down.

1.2.1 Tabs

There are four tabs at the top of the panel. Ignoring the General tab (this is where you currently are), we have:

- The Contestant Tab

This is where the information for all of the contestants. For more information on how to work with this panel, see the Contestant Panel.

- The Player Tab

This tab leads you to the Player panel, which displays information on the people that have decided to take part in the office pool. For more information on how to work with this panel, see Player Panel.

- The Bonus Tab

This tab leads you to where you will be able to enter new or modify existing questions for your players to answer. For more information on how to work with this panel, see Bonus Panel.

1.2.2 Time

There are two buttons in this area: Start Season and Advance Week (week number).

Start Season

Pressing this button indicates that you are prepared to begin the game with the information that you have entered. The requirements to start a season are as follows:

1. You must have saved a number of contestants equal to the number you set on the Create Season Panel.
2. You must have at least 1 person taking part in the office pool.

If you've met the requirements, a window will pop up and request that you enter the amount of money that each player will be contributing, and the advance week button will light up.

Advance Week

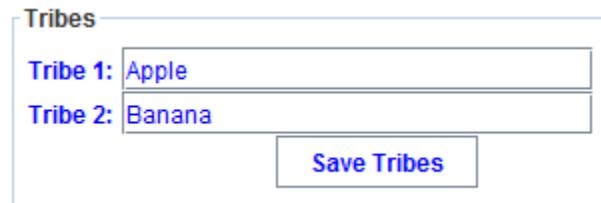

Figure 1.4: View after starting a season, on the first week with a pot size of $10.00

This button does quite a bit. It will cast off whichever contestant you selected to be, fill in weekly and ultimate picks for whichever players neglected to make theirs, allocate points based off of the weekly picks, and update the bottom half of the General Panel. You must have selected a contestant to be cast off for the current week in order for this button to work.

Note: This button will only become active after you have started the season. On the final week, the label on the button will change to Advance Final Week. The functionality is the same, it is just informing you that you have reached the final week of the competition.

1.2.3 Tribes

Tribes

Tribe 2:

Figure 1.5: Means to change the tribes during the season, as the Game usually does

Here you will see your two tribes names and a Save Tribes button. It is very straight forward. If it becomes necessary to change a tribe name, you can do so in the appropriate field (note that the restrictions applied to tribe names on the Create Season Panel will still apply on the General Panel) and press Save Tribes.
